77294 1 FUSE GOING TO WATER PUMP IS BLOWING
Water pump and water heater on same power source
We traced the wires down and found that the water pump and water heater was running off the same power wire. And it was causing the water pump to blow the 10 amp fuse at the water pump after going from hot water to cold. So we installed a designated hot wire for the water heater. So to do that we had to run wires from the breaker box down through the floor through the under belly of the camera and connect them to the water heater. Then we had to disconnect the hot wire that ran from the water heater to the control board on the wall in the camper for safety purposes. Then I had to put up the under belly and re foam the holes to seal it back like it was. Water pump and water heater is working properly now.
