RI	COMPLAINT:	PREFORM ROOF INSPECTION AND ADVISE IF REPAIR IS NEEDED.	W	1020 GRAND
	CAUSE:	1001 CUSTOMER REQUESTED. Their are a few small holes in the sealant that I cleaned and sealed. The previous year that I did a roof inspection, i noticed and noted an area by the a/c that didn't look right, but it isn't soft. This year their is a 32x48 section that is soft. They're no punctures in the fabric and the only thing mounted in the roof in that area is a pancake vent and all the sealant looks good around it. The only thing i can see that could possibly let water in is the back side of the vent has a cut out and water/snow could have got in there over the winter and somehow got underneath the alpha sealant causing the wood to rot. Two other areas are starting to do the same thing as what happened by the rear a/c. Im willing to bet by spring both sections will be soft as well. I'm reccomending a complete roof replacement with two sheets of decking.
